

ZEPPELINS AGAIN
RAID ENGLAND AND
WOMAN IS KILLED

Little Material Damage Results From Bombs at Southend.

A CHILD IS BADLY WOUNDED

Airships of the Allies Searched Over Ostend and 30 German Soldiers are the Victims; Turks in Fight Over Ploesti Dardanelles Fighting.

By Associated Press.

SOUTHEND, England, May 27.—Another Zeppelin airship raid was made upon this town last night and it is reported that three persons were killed by bombs which were dropped. The entire town was illuminated by the bursting of shells dropped by the airship. The material damage caused appears to have been less than on the occasion of the last raid.

A retired count shows that only one person was killed, Mrs. May Fabin, who was here on visit. A number of people, however, were injured. Some reports say that two and others that three Zeppelins took part in the raid. It is, however, impossible to give the number accurately because of heavy clouds at the time of the attack.

The noise of the propellers of the airships was first heard shortly before 11 o'clock. Then came at once the shock of the explosion as the bombs rained down from above. Some of the missiles were incendiary and threw out bright flames of light. Crowds assembled in the streets to view the raiders. The only fatality, the killing of Mrs. Fabin, occurred as the women was leaving a street car. It is recalled that on the previous raid the only victim was a woman, British aviators went up in pursuit of the raiders and failed to overtake them. Later two Zeppelins were seen over Burnham-on-Crouch, seven miles to the north-west of Southend, but no more bombs were dropped.

LONDON, May 27.—The secretary of the air ministry has issued a statement on the Southern raid which, contrary to the dispatches from Southend, says two women were killed by the air raid last night. The statement follows:

"Late last night a Zeppelin visited the East of England and dropped bombs on Southend. The casualties reported today are two women killed and one child badly injured. Very little material damage was done. A number of people were injured in the raid. The Zeppelins succeeded in escaping in an easterly direction."

ALBANY IN WEST ATTACK
TO WARFARE OF TRENCHES

LONDON, May 27.—Notwithstanding the supple weather the contenders in the western arena of hostilities, realizing the terrible losses even an insignificant advance entailed, have reverted generally speaking, to the trench warfare of the winter and in the Gallipoli in the east, the Dardanelles and perhaps the Italian-Austrian frontier, which are most likely to furnish spectacular developments in the next fortnight.

The Russians at last have admitted the extent of their retreat from the Danube to the South. They profess that the Austro-German rush has been held up and that Przemysl is in no danger, they pay tribute to the impetus and spirit of the advance of their autonomous army and they laud the smoothness of the Russian retirement, which they are calling a masterly one from the front. Out of breath after their eastward spirit the Germans and Austrians are bringing up reinforcements and ammunition and another great battle will be fought to determine whether the new lines to which the Russians have fallen back are tenable. According to the German the retreating of Przemysl is progressing in that they have forced another crossing of the river San only 11 miles north of the fortress. Italy and Austria are now engaged in the familiar roles of issuing contradictory official communication relative to the border fighting but it is claimed that there have as yet no important engagements of the 250 miles of common frontier between Italy and Austria. It is estimated that only one-fifth of a character for critical military operation and Italy's forces now in the field are following the course dictated by the geographical necessity, one army driving toward the river Isonzo and Trieste, and the other into the Tyrol where the rough country precludes any decisive engagements at an early date.

MOTORCYCLE HONEYMOON
PLAN OF LUZERNE PAIR

With Bride "On Behind" Hubby Starts on Long Spin; Ride for License and Parson.

UNIONTOWN, May 27.—Miss Jeanie Palmer, daughter of James T. Palmer, of Redstone township, a teacher in the Thompson No. 2 school, rode on the rear seat of a tandem motorcycle to Uniontown to get her marriage license and parson.

Nathaniel B. Porter, Jr., of Luzerne township, who secured a marriage license in the office of Register Charles O. Schreyer, and intended to be married by Rev. R. J. Shields.

"We're going on a honeymoon into Ohio for a week," said Miss Palmer just after they had secured their marriage license.

"On the motorcycle?" she was asked.

"Why certainly. It's fun," she replied.

"And what will the kiddies do at Thompson No. 2 for a teacher next fall?" she was asked.

"Oh, they'll go along all right. My place has applied for the position I held," she said.

"The bride said that Porter is an expert driver of the motorcycle. He has a clear, cool head and can drive the machine anywhere. Yet when he asked for a marriage license he showed anything but that. He even looked surprised when the marriage license clerk asked his father's name, and his prospective bride had to help him out. She knew all about it and wasn't taking any chances of being refused a license."

Porter is the son of Nathaniel Porter, Sr., and is a well known young farmer. After the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Porter will reside at the Porter farm in Luzerne township, about three miles from Uniontown.

An estate valued at $12,000 was left by James R. Vance of Smithfield, who died last Saturday, according to statements made today when his will was probated in the office of Register of Wills Charles O. Schreyer. The "homestead house" is left to Mrs. Emma T. Vance, the widow, for use during her life. "For so long as she remains my widow." Upon her death or marriage, the property goes to James Vance, a grandson. Mrs. Vance also given the furnishings of the house in cash. The real estate is left to Omer S. Vance, a son, "reserving the right, however, for the homesteaded bathroom to be supplied with water from the cistern on the hill as now." The will was made last December 3 and witnessed by W. S. Leach and James A. Leach, Jr., of Uniontown, and J. B. Hughes, an appointed receiver for the United Supply Company, a subsidiary concern of the United Fire Brick Company, today. The assets are $22,157.15, and the liabilities $12,313.95.

RAID IN TOWNSHIP

Constable and Chief Nephew Younkin and

Two raids last night on a house in Dunbar township near Robinson's Falls by Constable William Roland and Chief of Police W. B. Flowers, and Detective Smith of Uniontown, resulted in the roundup of Scott Younkin and three foreigners on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. Mrs. Younkin was not arrested because of illness.

Two of the Italians left forfeits of $5 and were released but the others are in the city lockup awaiting action by County Detective John Smith who was notified of the arrest this morning. Some time ago the house adjoining this was raided by the police but there was no evidence secured against them.

City Patrolmen Francis Murphy, George and Hilbert arrested today, Sunday, Sunday and George and George, all colored, together with Ada Owens of Greensburg, a white woman. They were charged with disorderly conduct. Juries left forfeits of $25.00 and did not appear for a hearing this morning. The others were committed for 72 hours by the mayor in default of fines of $5 each.

STILL WORKING ON ROADS.

Lower Tyrone Enthusiasts Not Satisfied With Just One Day.

A gang of good road workers, headed by John Landenberger, are today working on a section of the road in Lower Tyrone township, a link to the Landenberger being unable to join the workers yesterday.

Several wagon loads of shingles were hauled and by tonight the men expected to have the road show quite an improvement. The workers were served with lunch by Dawson women.

GEORGE IS MODEST.

Wants Brimstone Corner Highway Works to Get Full Credit.

Patrolman George Gregg is a modest man. He does not want all the credit for repairing a bad place in the street at Brimstone Corner. He says it is true that 18 bricks were placed in the street, but he did not place them all there.

C. F. and C. H. Bishop helped in the work of fitting them in place, and the Smith House contributed a very necessary shovel.

Ryndam Rammed at Sea in Dense Fog.

THE NEBRASKAN

THE RYNDAM

In the accompanying illustration are shown two ships which met with disaster at sea. The American steamer Nebraskan from Liverpool, May 24, for the Delaware breakwater, was torpedoed off the coast of Ireland. Early reports indicated that she was seriously damaged and that her crew had been saved. The Holland-American liner Ryndam, with seventy-seven passengers, which sailed from New York for Rotterdam, was rammed off Nantuxet by the fruit freighter Joseph J. Cuneo. The crash came in a heavy fog. No lives were lost.

DEMENTED WOMAN
LEAPS INTO RIVER;
MAN DRAGS HER OUT

Mrs. Mary Burnett, 50, Jumps Into Yough Near B. & O. Depot.

HER CONDITION IS UNCERTAIN

Hospital Authorities Unable to Tell the Extent of Her Injuries; Blame Helms and Garfield Taylor to Her Out.

Believed to have been temporarily insane, Mrs. Mary Burnett, 50 years old, a widow, leaped into the Yough river opposite the Baltimore & Ohio passenger station this afternoon. She was rescued by Helms, a car inspector, and Garfield Taylor, station porter, who say the woman leaped over the bank.

Mrs. Burnett walked across the station platform, crossing the yard tracks without attracting much attention. She was seen, however, leap into the stream. The river was sufficiently high to have raised the woman's death by drowning had she not been rescued.

Helms saw the woman's plunge and his cries brought Taylor to the scene. Both men plunged down the bank and dragged the woman out. She was only partly conscious and was sent to the hospital immediately.

At the hospital it was said that while it had not been determined if Mrs. Burnett suffered broken arm in a fall some time ago and has been acting strangely of late. This morning she called Mrs. Whitmore, a neighbor, and asked her to keep a purse and give it to her daughters. Helms and Taylor, who were on duty at the time, saw her and saw her jump into the river. She was only partly conscious and was sent to the hospital immediately.

Arkansas and Oklahoma Scept: The Damage Is Great.

PORT SMITH, Ark., May 27.—Six persons are reported dead, two at Clarksville, Oklahoma, and four at Clarksville, Oklahoma, and four at the storm, which swept Western Arkansas and Eastern Oklahoma last night and early today.

Railroads reaching here from Antlers, Oklahoma, reported that more than 60 persons were injured at Talihina. Wire and rail communication in the entire district is almost impossible and some estimates place the loss of life at a larger figure.

Property damage is heavy and it is said will reach more than a million dollars. Fears of serious floods also are increasing.

WEST SIDE QUOT TOSSERS
ARE AFTER SWEET REVENGE

Just Listen to What They Have to Say About That South Side Outfit.

The West Side doesn't intend to relinquish the quiet championship of Connellsville without a struggle. They haven't admitted that the South Side team has anything on them when it comes to finding the peg, and here is the bludgeoning reply of D. M. Parkhill to yesterday's blast. Mr. Parkhill says:

"In justice to the West Side horse-shoe pitchers, I wish The Courier to give space enough to explain to the public in general and to the East Side horse-shoe pitchers in particular, why the West Siders were so badly beaten."

"In the first place we were outnumbered 3 to 1. Then we pitch regulation shoes, no v-point. They came over with old hoops gathered from some scrap pile and made into the shape of horse-shoes. If this hoop fell near the peg it often slipped over and became a finger, while our shoes would often fall inside of theirs and be nearer the peg, but still not a finger. This gives an unfair advantage in favor of the hoops and against the shoes. One of our pitchers had very little practice and two of our best pitchers came too late to save the day as it was getting dark. The statement that I would pitch for who pays for the supper is absolutely incorrect."

"I did say that I had scored seven in a game and that I would give them to the boys and buy regulation shoes, from is, so about these Democratic times that you can afford real horse shoes, then we will pitch you with results to your shame."

"Select four or six pitchers, your very best, we will select the same number, use the same size and shaped shoe, and we will pitch you five or seven games, feeling confident that victory will come to and rest with the West Siders."

"Now won't you throw your hook and give them to the boys and buy regulation shoes, from is, so about these Democratic times that you can afford real horse shoes, then we will pitch you with results to your shame."

"Select four or six pitchers, your very best, we will select the same number, use the same size and shaped shoe, and we will pitch you five or seven games, feeling confident that victory will come to and rest with the West Siders."

LIGHT FROST HITS
THE COKE REGION;
DAMAGE IS SMALL

Fruit Trees and Vegetable Plants Prove Too Hardy.

A light frost descended on this section over night, but luckily delayed long enough for vegetation and fruit to get a good start, and little damage was caused. The temperature dropped to 28 degrees, which is the lowest mark reached since April 15, when it was 36 degrees.

Although the temperature was much lower in the country districts for farmers reported that on some pools a thin layer of ice was formed. The frost was thick enough in some sections to be scraped together in handfuls like snow.

Frost had threatened on several occasions, but cloudy nights prevented it. Last night, however, was clear and Jack Frost had his own way. Some young beans, tomato plants and other garden plants that got a late start were nipped, but the crops and plant life were not affected. Fruit trees were not hurt, farmers declare.

In the country, farmers report that there was frost only in the valleys, but its effect was not severe. Despite the bright sun today, the air did not warm up, gas fires were lighted last night and this morning and top coats were very comfortable.

FESTIVAL AT DAVIDSON.

Owensdale to Send Strong Team and Band for Saturday's Affair.

There will be a great turnout at Davidson on Saturday for the ball game and festival which is hoped to raise sufficient funds to finance the Davidson team through the season. The Owensdale team is to play, and a big crowd will come from the Morgan Valley, to say nothing of the band which the boys will bring along.

The festival will be a big affair. The girls of Davidson have turned in with a will to make it a success. There will be ice cream, cake, lemonade and other delicacies.

State Highway Officials Delighted Over Fayette's Showing.

FINE WORK DONE NEAR HERE.

Work Started by the Connellsville Automobile Club Is Carried Out Successfully in Every District; Better Highways Will be Outcome.

Approximately 5,000 men were at work on the roads in Fayette county yesterday. It is estimated that the work accomplished, if paid for in labor, would cost about $10,000. Perhaps a thousand women aided by serving lunch to the workers. At least 600 teams were at work, in addition to many scrapers and a dozen steam rollers.

Announcement was made yesterday in conjunction with the movement, that the state has authorized the expenditure of $31,500 for the improvement of roads in this district. With the exception of $3,000, which is to be spent on the road from Somerset east, all is to be expended for improvement of Fayette county. The figures obtained by the state highway officials in this county show the following men and teams working in the various townships:

Township	Men	Teams
Connellsville	300	25
Brownsville	100	12
Bullskin	150	15
Dunbar	100	20
Franklin	30	12

A tour over the roads in the vicinity of Connellsville yesterday afternoon showed that much good had been accomplished by the county highway activity. The complete work was begun yesterday, in the Pennsylvanian district at least, will require at least a day more of work, but that the highways here have been improved to an extent that would seem impossible in a single day. Supervisor J. P. Crossland of Bullskin township has promised to have his regular force will complete the work.

The day proved ideal for work on the roads. The lowering skies and cool temperature made it possible to do a good day's work in comparative comfort. The volunteer workers were especially glad on this account, but those who stuck the day out were leaving many a "quitting time" came. There is many a "broken back" in evidence today, and blistered hands are common.

The only mishap of the day occurred late yesterday afternoon when one of Contractor John Duggan's big steam rollers, after working all day on the McCoy Springs road, ran over a log in the bank just above the garbage plant. The big machine stopped with the two front wheels hanging over the embankment and one of the rear rollers just off the road. It could not get back of its own power because of the peculiar position it was in and a double team of horses proved of little help. For over two hours the workmen on that section tried every way to bring the roller back to the road, but it was finally necessary to bring Mr. Duggan's other roller from beyond Trotter, a distance of about three miles, to aid in the rescue work. There is a 30-foot incline down to the yard of the garbage plant at that point, over which the roller narrowly escaped tumbling.

Incidentally, the McCoy Springs road has been transformed into a regular boulevard as far as J. L. Stader's country place. The entire stretch was filled and rolled, drains were constructed under the road at several places and gutters cut along it to carry off the surplus water. A fine chicken dinner and supper were served to these workers at Mr. Stader's country home. A force of about 25 men worked all day. Among them were Rev. C. L. Richardson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Captain E. Dunn, who despite his years, did a full day's hard work; John Curry, the veteran lumber dealer; A. B. Kartz, J. A. Lyon, C. B. Freed and J. L. Stader.

In Pennsylvanian two knolls that were in evidence here were cut down about two feet each, with plows and scrapers, at least 100 hollow places were filled in and a good portion of the road rounded up so as to make it fairly level in the future. Mr. R. Marietta bowed a scraper all day at this point.

John P. Trader finished 26 men work on the road between Iron Bridge and McClure. Saw service King furnished a roller and scraper and two men. Aaron's truck and car hauled the men to and from the place. Samuel McGowan with a double team hauled shingles for the road. In Bullskin No. 2 Supervisor William Hay with a force of men did work. Teams were furnished by several men.

Approximately 5,000 men were at work on the roads in Fayette county yesterday. It is estimated that the work accomplished, if paid for in labor, would cost about $10,000. Perhaps a thousand women aided by serving lunch to the workers. At least 600 teams were at work, in addition to many scrapers and a dozen steam rollers.

Announcement was made yesterday in conjunction with the movement, that the state has authorized the expenditure of $31,500 for the improvement of roads in this district. With the exception of $3,000, which is to be spent on the road from Somerset east, all is to be expended for improvement of Fayette county. The figures obtained by the state highway officials in this county show the following men and teams working in the various townships:

Township	Men	Teams

Brownsville	100	12
Bullskin	150	15
Dunbar	100	20

MINI WATER PROFITS.

The announcement that the experiments of the H. C. Frick Coke Company looking toward the profitable extraction of the sulphuric acid and iron oxide from the mine water at Davidson will not appear until the day following because the cost of operating the plant was greater than the value of the products will be received with much regret not only by coke manufacturers themselves, but also by citizens of the Conneltsville coke region generally. All had hoped that a process might be evolved which would not only commercialize the mine water, but which would also eliminate a public nuisance. The mine drainage of the coke region pollutes the smaller streams to such an extent that all not only life there is destroyed and they are unfit for domestic purposes. It is encouraging, however, to know that the Frick experiments along this line have not been wholly abandoned. The process is feasible; the problem is to make it commercial and we will cling to the reasonable hope that the inventive genius of the Conneltsville coke region will yet find a way to cleanse its mine water at a clean profit.

DANGERS OF COKE DRAWING.

The hazard of the coke-maker is not so great as that of the coal miner, but it amounts to two-thirds of 1% or a loss of one man in every 400 employed. There are in the United States 531 coke plants aggregating 122,000 ovens, employing 23,313 choppers, drawers and other outside laborers, and of these 4,000 are killed in 1914. The chief source of accident was the haulage systems of the plants most of which are electric. It is thought by the United States Bureau of Mines that there is room here for improvement in the percentage of hazard, and the idea should receive the consideration of the safety first promoters of the Conneltsville region, who have ever been the leaders in the work of making mining conditions better and safer.

The unhappy Uniontown New Freedom Standard, which has pruned for few and harsh words for many, does not approve of Good Roads Day. Jolie the pirate it is, it is for the curing the good roads movement for a bit of political recovery. The Democratic organ seems to fear that Governor Brumbaugh, Congressman Hopwood and some other Republicans all as horns-shedded tollers on the roads advance their political fortunes, forgetting that Mayor Marlette, Conneltsville John Buchanan and many other Democrats were enthusiastic workers on Good Roads Day. It's a sad thing to be cured with a mean disposition.

The Good Roads movement knew no distinction.

When the Sons and Daughters of the Revolution get through marking the march of Hancock, they might set up some monuments in memory of American patriots. There's William Crawford, for example, who accompanied Washington on the Braddock expedition, fought at Fort Mifflin and died at the stake in this whence he led the Crawford expedition against the Indians and British.

The steam roller was out, but it ran over no man's political ambitions.

The determination of the South Conneltsville School Board to increase to High School curriculum to four years and withdraw its paid pupils in the Conneltsville High School saves that district $500 a year. It is by the same token it reduces the revenue of the Conneltsville district by a like amount. However, the Conneltsville High School will be hard put to take care of its own holding from the size of the freshman class.

The Conneltsville coke boom is not in sight, but the men who say they can hear the rustle of its wings.

The Westmoreland courts have decided that as a condition precedent to seeking damages the driver of a vehicle must establish the fact that he was on the right side of the road. This judicial deliverance is right in every respect.

The last victim of the Dardanelles campaign is the Triumph that failed.

The removal of the Humboldt plate mill makes hole in South Conneltsville's valuation for taxing purposes. It is to be hoped, for the sake of the young borough as well as the city of Conneltsville, that some other industry may soon be located in place of the defunct tin plate mill.

It is said that even our old friend Tadpole, the Moravian handi, has determined to join the world war. The spirit of belligerency is contagious.

If the Conneltsville business men are really interested in the question of Women Suffrage they should hear the women advocates together and give them ample time to present their arguments. If however they are hearing the ladies out of courtesy only, they will hear them briefly and apart. This method will save time and insure peace.

If a man owns his own machine and can spare the time, it is perhaps just as cheap and as interesting to make the trip to the Pacific Coast in an automobile when the weather has settled.

It's a very quiet day when there are no mine explosions at sea.

The Conneltsville Sons of Veterans were shown in their organization, but they have made up in numbers and enthusiasm what they lacked in initiative.

The Only Clouds That Ever Dim The Glory of Fortified Tires

Goodyear tires, like other tires, meet with ill-luck at times. No doubt some men are judging them by some such rare exception.

To them we say this:

Remember that men have tested nearly five million Goodyear tires. The tests have covered 15 years. Long ago those tests placed Goodyears at the top, and they've kept there ever since.

Last year men bought about one Goodyear tire for every car in use. Doesn't that show that men in general have proved these tires the best?

In Five Ways

Goodyear Fortified Tires have five exclusive features. We spend on them millions of dollars to reduce your tire upkeep times, meet with ill-luck at times. No doubt some men are judging them by some such rare exception.

One combats rim-outs, one blowouts, one loose tread. One makes the tire secure. And one combats punctures and skidding by our double-thick All-Weather tread.

In those ways, at least, Fortified Tires excel all others.

Lower Prices

Now these super-tires offer still greater value. On Feb. 1st we made another big price reduction. That's the third in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

We do you a kindness when we urge you to try them.

They mean to you the utmost in a tire. They mean content. Any dealer will supply you.

High Class Groceries Popular Prices

The Union Supply Company management want to call your attention to their complete grocery departments. What we mean by complete, is the superior stocks, and the only way for you to know that our statement is correct, is to visit the stores and give us a trial order. The sixty-three stores in which we have grocery departments are supplied daily. The goods are first fresh. Second they come under the pure food laws of the state and national governments; are inspected and stamped accordingly. Third, the prices are reasonably low for the high class of goods. Fourth, the courteous treatment and prompt deliveries are an inducement. We want your business; it is to your interest to buy from a Union Supply Company store. If you have never been a customer, try it; leave us and order the next time you want goods. We will not specify the varieties, nor will we specify prices, but we do claim that the quality is the best in the market, and the public knows well that our prices are reasonable; lower than any legitimate competition.

FOUNDRY COKE ACTIVE AND STRONG BUT BOOM IN FURNACE COKE HALTS

Contract Foundry Price is Well Established
at $2.40.

BRISK SPOT FOUNDRY MOVEMENT

Small Demand for Prompt Furnace and Second Half Contracts Still Remain Cool in the Background.
Operators Want $1.75 or Better.

From The Weekly Courier.
PITTSBURGH, May 26.—Foundry
coke continues to show more activity than furnace coke. The more important consumers are closing contracts for regular supplies, beginning July 1. As a rule the contracts are for the twelve-month period. Some of the sellers are endeavoring to limit the contract period to six months, but without a great deal of success, as the consumers have had the habit for years of contracting for a year at a time, and any effort to shorten the period usually makes them the more eager to cover for the first half of next year as well as the second half of this year.

The contract foundry coke market is well established at $2.40 for the twelve-month, and all the recognized standard brands seem to be bringing this figure. It is doubtful whether the figure could be shaded on any really standard grade coke.

There is considerable more movement in prompt foundry coke, partly because foundries are consuming more coke and partly because some of them are ordering regular shipments prior to placing regular contracts. Some of the operators will not sell prompt foundry coke at less than the contract price, but many operators are more accommodating, especially when they see the possibility of regular contracts to follow.

The furnace coke market is disappointingly slow. The coke operators cannot understand why more interest is not manifested when the reports from the iron and steel trade proper are so encouraging. There is very little demand for prompt furnace coke and hardly any more for contract coke for the second half. There have been some desultory negotiations but nothing seems to be coming to a head at the moment and only two contracts have been closed thus far in the movement, both several weeks ago.
Less than half the existing contracts,

COKE TRADE FEATURES.

The features of the Connelsville coke trade are increased tonnage, brighter prospects, firmer prices.
1,400 coke ovens fired during the past week.
Production last week rose to 395,000 tons.
Shipments aggregated 205,000
tons.
Indications are that these figures will be materially increased during the current week.
Six days work is the rule at all the coke plants just now.
Foundry coke active, but furnace coke dull.
Upper Connelville and Greensburg districts making 37,000 tons weekly.

however, expire next month. When the contracts were originally made, perhaps over half of them were for six months only, but several were quickly extended to cover the entire year.

Prompt furnace coke is easily obtained at $1.50, in such small lots as may be required, as many of the operators usually have a few cars loaded and ready for sale. For coke to the end of next month, although the period is a short one, price ideas are considerably higher, and $1.60 could hardly be shaded. For the second half the ordinary talk is $1.75, but as there has been little inquiry, the views of operators are hardly brought up to date, and on a few inquiries appearing it might be that the interest of operators would ask more than $1.75, while on the other hand
one or two might jump at the chance to shade the figure. The market as a whole is quotable as follows:

Prompt furnace $1.50 to $1.55
Furnace to July 1 $1.50
Furnace to January 1 $1.75
Prompt foundry $2.40 to $2.45
Contract foundry $2.20 to $2.40

The local pig iron market continues to show a firm undertone, but market activity is still lacking. Demand seems sufficient to absorb current production without difficulty, and the most move of the market is likely to be an advance. That, however, has been the prospect for some time, the difficulty being for the market to get started. Any real activity would probably start an upward movement that would carry prices several notches higher. The market remains

quotable as follows:
Bessemer $13.00
Basic $12.75
Foundry $12.50
Gray Forge $12.50
Malleable $12.75
All at Valley furnaces, 95 cents higher delivered Pittsburgh.

SHADY GROVE OPENS TODAY

First Day for the Popular Park is Greeted by Clear Skies.
Italy, submarines, Przemysl, neutrality and Roosevelt are momentarily forgotten when this is Shady Grove's opening day.

Under the command of General Goodweather, one of the largest arrives of pleasure seekers ever mobilized in this vicinity will today storm
the citadel of the renowned Shady Grove, capture humidity and gloom and mid-summer made unfulfilling the ad of recreation to the balmy mountain breezes. Thousands of clerks, tollers and shop girls from all walks of life will be liberated from their stuffy office and factory prisons to enjoy a three months' joyful respite in the open. Hundreds of baskets of summer ammunition will be carried to the park to appease the hungry appetites of the pleasure combatants, both young and old.

Shady Grove has declared war against the torrid rays of Char Sol and wagonloads of refreshments are on their way to the park. The Triple Banties, dancing, phonics and amusement, have already announced with the allies of Shady Grove.
Manager R. S. Coyle has secured an appropriation to bring some of the premier outdoor attractions of the country to the pleasure grounds this season.

GOOD ROADS DAY GETS 5,750 OUT IN THIS COUNTY

During the day and liberal applications of crushed stone put the Swauger-stown road in great shape.
Too much credit cannot be given the workers who of Connelville, where at least 200 men and about 25 teams worked throughout the day. The road turning off at Trotter and connecting with the Limestone Hill road was re-laid off with coke ashes and rolled.
The gullies in the Limestone Hill road were filled in, about a mile of road beyond the paving at Leokening No.
1 was improved, the Wheeler road was put in for better shape and there was much other good work accomplished.

Councilman John Duggan worked
all day, Ed Duggan ran a steam roller, C. H. Frank supervised the work at Leokening, Supervisors Isaac
Colbert, William W. Porter and William M. Jacobs had their men at work in the various sections.

The East Park Community Club
did good work on the boulevard and the Connelville Automobile Club has promised that what work remains to be done on this road will be done by the club.

Much credit is given the suffragists, who served a fine lunch to the men at work in the various districts. There was plenty for all.

A PRETTY GOWN HAVING AN AT-TACTIVE SKIRT MOD-
The gown shown here may be pretiously developed in either voile or of soft silk if a more elaborate frock is desired. The skirt is the noticeably distinctive feature of this model. The front portion hangs over the side in apron effect and is slightly shorter, showing an under petticoat of plaited lace. If this frock is developed in silk the yoke should be of self-toned chiffon, also the sleeves, the main portion of the bodice and the little vest being of the silk. The skirt has a ruching on the lower edge of the chiffon. If, however, voile is the material used both skirt and blouse should be of that material, the vest and sleeves in a contrasting color of the same, preferably white. Voile is used for the ruchings. In both instances lace is used for the shoulder drapery, collar and petticoat.

The Arcade

Owing to the great success both artistically and financially, the Gluck Amusement Company have held over the Jackson and Andrews Musical & Comedy Company for the last three days of the present week, who will present for the first time in this city
one of the funniest and best comedy bits included in their repertoire entitled "Battle of the Nations," in which are seen Frank Wright and Charlie Golden as the irrepressible and funny generals. New songs and dances will be introduced by the captivating and well trained chorus of the company who created such a furor during the first part of the week, and the harmony trio will be heard in new selections.
An entire change of pictures will be shown, making the Arcade a place not to be overlooked if you are seeking amusement of a refined nature.

The Globe

Finella N. Bushman and Ruth Stonehouse are assisted by an able cast of Broadway players, are appearing today at the Globe in "The Great Silence," a three reel picture, one of Mr. Bushman's latest successes. The story is intensely interesting. Several reels of additional pictures will be shown. Tomorrow, "The Unmarried

"Then I will tell you," said Muriel quickly. "My father suspected Woodroffe of being the assassin in Rangoon wood, for he knew that he had broken away from the original compact, and had now allied himself with Oberge. Yet it was also my father's object to appear in fear of them, because he was only awaiting an opportunity to lay plans for poor Elma's rescue from Finland. Therefore one evening Woodroffe called, and my father encountered him in the avenue, and admitted him with his own intention by one of the side doors of the castle afterwards taking him up to the study. He knew that he had come to try and make terms for Oberge, therefore he saw that he must fly at once to Newnastle, where the Iris was lying, get off board, and sail away.

"With some excuse he left him in the study, and then warned my mother and myself to prepare to leave. But while we were packing, it appeared that Chatter, who had followed, was shown into the study by the butler, or rather he entered there himself, being well acquainted with the house. Thus the two men, now bitter enemies met. A fierce quarrel must have ensued, and Chatter was poisoned and concealed. Woodroffe, of course, believing he had killed him. My father entered the study again, and seeing only Woodroffe there, did not know what had occurred. Some words probably arose, when my father again turned and left. Then we fled to Catterick and on to Newnastle, and next morning were on board the yacht out in the North sea, afterwards landing at Rotterdam. There," she added, "and briefly the facts, as my poor father related them to me."

"And what of poor Elma—and of her secret? When I was here, shall I see her?" I cried in despair.

"You will see her now, signore," answered Ollito. "A servant of the Princess Zurlott brought her to London this afternoon, and I have just conveyed her from the station. She is in the next room, in ignorance, however, that you are here."

And without another word I fled forward joyfully, and threw open the folding doors which separated me from my silent love.

Silent, yes! But she could, nevertheless, tell her story—surely the strangest that any woman has ever lived to tell.

CHAPTER XVII.

Contains Elma's Story.

Before me stood my love, a slim, fragile, rather than a heavy dark traveling coat and felt top, her secret lips parted and a look of bewildered amazement upon her countenance as I burst in so suddenly upon her.

In silence I grasped her tiny black gloved hand, and then, also in silence, raised it passionately to my eyes. Her soft, dark eyes—those eyes that spoke although she was mute—met mine, and in them was a look that I had never seen there before—a look which as plainly as any words told me that my wild fevered passion was recognized.

"She gazed, beyond into the room where the others had assembled, and then looked at me inquiringly, whereupon I led her forward to where they were, and Muriel told upon her and kissed her with tears streaming from her eyes.

"I prepared this surprise for you, Mr. Grogg," Muriel said, laughing through her tears of joy. "Ollito learned that she was on her way to London, and I sent him to meet her. The princess has managed magnificently, has she not?"

"Yes. Thank God she is free!" I exclaimed. "But we must induce her to tell us everything."

Muriel was already helping my love out of her heavy Russian coat, a costly garment lined with sable, and when, after greeting Jack and Ollito, she was comfortably seated, I took some newspaper from the little writing table by the window and scribbled in pencil the words:

"I need not write how delighted I am that you are safe—that the Almighty has heard my prayers for you. Jack and Muriel have told me all about Lethcourt and his scandalous associates. I know, too, dear—for I may call you that, may I not?—how terribly you must have suffered in silence through it all. Lethcourt is dead. He sank the yacht with all the stolen property on board, but by accident was himself engulfed.

your side although I was unaware of your peril. I was sent to you by the unseen power to extricate you from the hands of your enemies. Therefore tell us everything—all that you know—without fear, for now that we are united no harm can assail us."

She took the pencil, and holding it in her white fingers sat staring first at us, and then looking hesitatingly at the white paper before her. Her position, amid a hundred conflicting emotions, was one of extreme difficulty. It seemed as though even now she was loath to reveal to us the absolute truth.

Muriel, standing behind her chair, tenderly stroked back the wealth of chestnut hair from her white brow. Her complexion was perfect, even though her face was pale and faded, and her eyes heavy, a sequent upon her long, weary journey, from the now frozen North.

Presently, when by signs both Jack and Ollito had urged her to write, she bent suddenly, and her pencil began to run swiftly over the paper.

All of us stood exchanging glances in silence, neither looking over her shoulder, but each determined to wait in patience until the end. Once started, however, she did not pause. She wrote after short pauses. The silence for a long time was complete, broken only by the rapid running of the pencil over the rough surface of the paper. She had apparently become seized by a sudden determination to explain everything, now that she saw we were in real, dead earnest.

I watched her sweet face bent so intently, and as the freckled light across it found it incomparable. Yes; who was afflicted by loss of speech, it was true, yet she was surely lacking, possibly sweet and womanly, peerless above all others.

With a deep-drawn sigh she at last finished, and her head still bowed in an attitude of humiliation, it seemed, she handed what she had written to me.

In breathless eagerness I read as follows:

"Is it true, dear love—for I call you so in return—that you were impelled towards me by the mysterious hand that directs all things? You came in search of me, and you risked your life for mine at Kajana, therefore you have a right to know the truth. You, as my champion, and the princess as my friend, have conspired to effect my freedom. Were it not for you, I should ere this have been on my way to Saghalien, to the tomb to which Oberge had so ingeniously contrived to consign me. Ah! you do not know—no, never can know—all that I have suffered ever since I was a girl."

Here the statement broke off, and recommenced as follows:

"In order that you should understand the truth, I had better begin at the beginning. My father was an English merchant in Petersburg, and my mother, Vera Resnault, who, before her marriage with my father, was celebrated at court for her beauty, and was one of the maids of honor to the czarina. She was the only daughter of Count Paul Resnault, ex-governor of Kharkoff, and before marrying my father she had, with her mother, been a well-known figure in society. Immediately after her marriage her father died, leaving her in possession of an ample fortune, which, with my father's own wealth, placed them among the richest and most influential in Petersburg.

"Among my father's most intimate friends was Baron Xavier Oberge, who, at that time, held a very subordinate position in the ministry of the interior—and from my earliest recollections I can remember him coming frequently to our house and being invited to the brilliant entertainments which my mother gave. When I was thirteen, however, my father died of a chill contracted while hunting on his estate in Kiev, and within a few months a further disaster happened to us. One night, while I was sitting alone reading aloud to my mother, two strangers were announced, and on being shown in they arrested my dear mother on a charge of complicity in a revolutionary plot against the czar which had been discovered at Peterhof. I stood silent and dumbfounded, for my mother was certainly no nihilist, yet they said that the bomb had been introduced into the palace by the Countess Anna Shiloff, one of the ladies-in-waiting, who was an intimate friend of my mother's and often used to visit her. They alleged that the conspiracy had been hatched in our house, color being lent to that theory by the fact that a year before a well-known Russian with whom my father had had many business dealings had been proved to be the author of the plot by which the czar's train was blown up near Livadia. They tore my mother away from me and placed her in the gray prison-van, the sight of which in the streets of Petersburg strikes terror into the heart of every Russian, for a person once in that rumbling vehicle is, as you know, forever to the world. I watched her from the window being placed in that fatal conveyance, and then I think I must have fainted, for I recollect nothing more until I found myself upon the floor, with the gray dawn spreading, and all the horrible truth came back to me. My mother was gone from me forever!

"In sheer desperation I went to the ministry of the interior and sought an interview with the baron, who when I told him of the disaster, appeared greatly concerned, and went at once to the police department to make inquiry. Next day, however, he came to me with the news that the charge against my mother had been proved by a statement of the woman Shiloff herself, and that she had already started on her long journey to Siberia—she had been exiled to one of those dreaded Arctic settlements beyond Yakutsk, a place where it is almost eternal winter, and where the conditions of life are such that half the convicts are insane. The baron, however, declared that, as my father's friend, it was his duty to act as guardian to me, and that as my father had been English I ought to be put to an English school. Therefore, with his self-assumed title of uncle, he took me to Chichester. For years I remained there, until one day he came suddenly and fetched me away, taking me over to Helsingfors—for the czar had now appointed him governor-general to Finland. There, for the first time, he introduced me to his son, Michael, a plump-faced lieutenant of cavalry, and said in a most decisive manner that I must marry him. I naturally refused to marry a man of whom I knew so little, whereupon, finding me obstinate, he quickly altered his tactics and became kind and sweet, saying that as I was young he would allow me a year in which to make up my mind.

"A week later, while living in the palace at Helsingfors, I overheard a conversation between the governor-general and his son, which revealed to me a staggering truth that I had never suspected. It was Oberge himself who had denounced my mother to the minister of the interior, and had made those cruel, baseless charges against her! Then I discerned the reason. She being exiled, her fortune, as well as that of my father, came to me. The reason they were scheming for Michael to marry me was in order to obtain control of my money, and then, after the necessary legal formalities, I should, on a trumped-up charge of conspiracy, share the same fate as my mother had done."

"The infernal scoundrel!" I ejaculated, when I read her words, while from Jack, who had been looking over my shoulder, escaped a fierce and forcible vow of vengeance.

"The baron took me with him to Petersburg when he went on official business, and we remained there nearly a month," the narrative went on. "While there I received a secret message from 'The Red Priest' the unknown and unknown power of nihilism, who has for so many years baffled the police. I went to see him, and he revealed to me how Oberge had contrived to have my mother banished upon a false charge. He warned me against the man who had pretended to be my father's friend, and also told me that he had known my father intimately, and that if I got into any further difficulty I was to communicate with him and he would assist me. Oberge took me back to Helsingfors a few months later, and in summer we went to England. He was a marvelously clever diplomatist. His tactics he could change at will. When I was at school he was rough and brutal in his manner towards me, as he was to all; but now he seemed to be endeavoring to inspire my confidence by treating me with kindly regard and pleasant affability.

"In London, at Claridge's, we met my old school-fellow Muriel and her father—a friend of Oberge's—and in response to their invitation went for a cruise on their yacht, the Iris, from Southampton. Our party was a very pleasant one, and included Woodroffe and Chatter, while our cruise across the Bay of Biscay and along the Portuguese coast proved most delightful. One night, while we were lying outside Lisbon, Woodroffe and Chatter, together with Ollito, went ashore, and when they returned in the early hours of the morning they awoke me by crossing the deck above my head. Then I heard someone outside my cabin door working as though with a screw-driver, unscrewing the door from the woodwork. This aroused my interest, and next day I made a minute examination of the paneling, where, in one part, I found two small brass screws that had evidently been recently removed.

"I was alone in the cabin when I heard the door being unscrewed, and I crept out and unscrewed the panel. When Everyone Was Asleep I Crept Out and Unscrewed the Panel.

moved. Therefore I succeeded in getting hold of a screwdriver from the carpenter's shop, and next night, when everyone was asleep, I crept out and unscrewed the panel, when to my surprise I saw that the secret cavity behind was filled with beautiful jewelry, diamond collars, turquoises, neckties, blue pearls, emeralds and turquoise, all thrown in indiscriminately.

A REAL KIDNEY MEDICINE: ALWAYS RELIABLE

I feel that I ought to tell what I know about Swamp-Root and what it has done for me. I was down and out and had to quit work in 1906. I only weighed 125 pounds. The doctor said I had kidney trouble in the worst form and my liver was out of order; and I had rheumatism so badly I could not get around. One day I picked up an almanac and saw your advertisement, and it hit me right in the eye. I got a one-dollar bottle and took it and when it was gone I felt so much better that I bought the more bottles of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and I was a well man; my weight increased until I weigh 215 pounds. I am 65 years old and I am feeling fine and work every day. I have three men who know me when I had to quit work in the mill in 1906, and who will make affidavit to my present health.

If you want to use the above statements as my testimonial, you have my consent.

Yours very truly,
W. T. GRAYSON,
Anderson, Indiana.

Personally appeared before me this 14th day of February, 1915, W. T. GRAYSON, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.
